

THREE CARD SIC-BO

Introduction

Sic Bo, meaning "dice pair" is an ancient Chinese gambling game. The game uses three dice and a table with a variety of betting options on the roll of those dice. The odds are posted on the table layout along with the betting area next to each outcome. Players will place their bets on certain areas of the layout and will win or lose depending on the roll. Sic Bo is strictly a game of chance because every roll of the dice results in a win or loss on any bet

Cards are used to represent the dice and a scanner to read the cards. Three Card Sic Bo is played using three different colored decks of six cards each; a red deck, a blue deck and a green deck. The 6 cards are the "Ace", "Two", "Three", "Four", "Five" and "Six", which represent the numbers 1 through 6, respectively. The cards have barcodes which allow them to be scanned by the optical scanner. The cards are shuffled every round by a mechanical shuffler. The dealer will scan exactly three cards and the results will be displayed on a monitor as a video dice roll representing the three card draw. For example, if the dealer were to scan an "Ace", a "Two" and a "Three" of any suit, the video would display the three dice rolled as a 1, 2 and 3.

Game Description

Three Card Sic Bo will use the Ideal shuffler. Players will place bets on the layout corresponding to certain combinations and or totals of the possible outcomes from rolling three dice. The dealer will remove all 18 cards from the shuffler and spread them face down on the layout from left to right. Beginning from the dealer's perspective moving counter clockwise right to left; the dealer will select the first red backed card, to be followed by the next blue backed card, followed by the next green backed card, sliding each forward face down. The remaining cards will be placed in the discard rack and the three cards selected will be scanned and turned face up on the layout. Each card scanned represents the roll of one six sided die and the result will display on the monitor behind the table. Losing bets are collected and winning bets are paid based on odds posted on the layout corresponding to the wager they have made. The three scanned cards are now placed in the discard rack. The dealer will now remove all cards from the discard rack, strip the cards and return all 18 to the shuffler where the round of play will begin again.
